

It all Begins with a Plan

and our expertise.

A moving professional and your personal moving consultant, our local American Red Ball agent will work with you from start to finish—across town or across the country. Before the first box is packed or the van pulls up to your door, your local agent will create a plan that covers every detail of your move and ensures efficient and safe handling of your personal property. Advance planning enables us to give you an accurate estimate of the cost of the move and a schedule you can depend on.

Getting an estimate

Your moving consultant, with specialized training and years of experience, will listen to your needs, evaluate your move and include every detail. The result is an estimate encompassing all charges that is timely, fair and, above all, accurate. A variety of factors affects the final estimate.

The primary aspects are shipment weight and the distance to your new location. Professional services required such as packing, custom crating, appliance preparation, unpacking, and storage are also determined and included. Your moving consultant will help you identify all your needed services and potential costs so you have an estimate that is reasonable and specific.
